

Points to Remember After Treatment

Radiation therapy is a cumulative treatment and builds up on a daily basis so any reactions may persist for several weeks following completion of your treatment. These reactions are usually most severe in the 1-2 weeks following treatment. You should continue to follow any advice the radiation therapists have given you until these reactions (side effects) have subsided.

On your final day of treatment you will be given an appointment to see the doctor in approximately 6-8 weeks. At this appointment the doctor will discuss your progress.

We are here to help: if you would like more information on any aspect of your treatment, or you are troubled by anything, please do not hesitate to ask us.

Please ring the treatment unit you attended if you have any questions once you have finished your treatment.
